

Let's do lunch..... An honest business invitation

If I phoned you for an appointment, you'd tell me you have no use for our services and you'd be right, because if you knew just what we can offer, you'd most likely have called us. That's why I'm inviting you and a colleague to join me for lunch instead.

I want to learn more about your business and show you what we're about. Perhaps we can help you, perhaps not, it's as simple as that. No cost, no obligations, no pressure.

Now I'd bet you that's the most honest invitation you're likely to get this year. You'll get some helpful tips for your business, know where to find help if you ever need it and you'll enjoy a great meal.
